

Academic Library Services Procedure Manual

200.49

Subject: Building Use

Title: Lactation Support

Administrative Procedure – Date Issued by Administration: Sept. 1, 2016

Library Director: Jan Lewis

Date Revised: January 9, 2020

It is the intent of East Carolina University to be recognized as a family friendly workplace by assisting working parents with the transition back to work following the birth of a child by providing lactation support. A lactation support program allows a nursing parent to express breast milk periodically during the workday.

Joyner Library provides for lactation support through the use of a locked room with suitable furniture and equipment. Employees of Academic Library Services (including student employees) may be issued a key to the room for the duration they need to use it. Other people within Joyner Library, including university employees, students, and community members, may use the room by requesting access at the security guard station.