Interim dean Jan Lewis plays the Genie Librarian role along side PeeDee played by Dwain Teague, major gift officer, in the 2013 ECU Homecoming "Shipwrecked in Pirate Nation" Parade.

Dwain Teague and I had a wonderful time on the Joyner Library float in the Homecoming Parade. It was great to hear student, faculty and community shout-outs for Joyner along the route. And the Pirate victory over Tulsa made it a perfect day!

Congratulations to the Joyner Library faculty and staff who presented at the recent North Carolina Library Association conference and to those who were elected to offices. Their involvement is critical to the success of the Association and to achieving its mission of promoting libraries, library and information services, librarianship, intellectual freedom and literacy. Two faculty members' multi-year contributions to the Association were recognized: Eleanor Cook received the Marilyn Miller Award for Professional Commitment, while Alan R. Bailey received the Roadbuilder's Award (Academic Librarianship). Read more about Joyner's involvement in the NCLA on pages 9-10. Congratulations also to Barry Munson who is now a four-time recipient of the North Carolina Society of Historians' Willie Parker Peace History Award and to Fred

Harrison and Arthur Carlson on the publication of their recent books.

Thanks to everyone who provided feedback during the Scopus database trial. That trial has now ended and a decision will be made within the next few weeks as to whether the ECU Libraries will subscribe to Scopus. Trials of three other databases are currently underway. Please visit the Database Trials page for more information.

Have you visited The ScholarShip recently? If not, take a look at the most recent additions which include articles and presentations by faculty as well as theses and dissertations completed by ECU graduates. The ScholarShip is a permanent repository for the scholarly output of ECU, and provides a persistent URL to point to your work. It is easy to upload your publications to The ScholarShip. For more information, please see The ScholarShip Deposit Process or contact us: scholarlycomm@ecu.edu.

This is the final issue of Joyner Library's eNews for fall semester. On behalf of everyone at Joyner Library, I extend warm wishes for a wonderful holiday season.

DATA MANAGEMENT RESOURCES

The National Institutes of Health and the National Science Foundation, among other funders, require Data Management Plans to be included in proposals. In these plans, Principal Investigators must address the types of data gathered, the metadata used to describe them, their access and sharing policies, preservation plans, and re-use and derivative policies. Data arising from federal funding sources are more and more expected to be available, especially since the OSTP Policy Memorandum of February 22, 2013.

ECU Libraries offer help on Data Management Plans. One of our most important resources is the DMPTool. Log in using your Pirate ID and password, and at the DMPTool site you can view templates, draft, and store your own Data Management Plans. Librarians can help you find sample DMPs and additional guidance, and are available to answer questions related to metadata.

Librarians can also help researchers identify data repositories to store and make your work available. There are some repositories associated specifically with ECU, including DataVerse, created in partnership with the Odum Institute, and The ScholarShip, ECU's Institutional Repository. Project REDCap is in development with ITCS. Options outside ECU cross a wide range of general and subject-area repositories, including GitHub, figshare, or DataONE.

And don't forget ICPSR! ECU is a member institution of the Inter-University Consortium for Political and Social Research, so researchers may contribute to this social sciences data repository. To talk over other possible data repositories, email ScholarlyComm@ecu.edu.

For more details, view the Data Management Research Guide or contact Joseph Thomas or Marlena Barber.

Music Library Honors Thomas Moore Collection Donors

On November 2, the Music Library joined forces with the School of Music's Four Seasons Chamber Music Festival to honor prominent Miami violinist Thomas Moore and his widow, former ECU nursing professor Sandra Walsh. Although Tom and Sandra were Winston Salem middle school sweethearts, they went their separate ways for decades before reconnecting in the mid-1990s and enjoying 15 years together in sunny Miami before Tom's death in 2011.

With the help of fellow ECU nursing professor Lou Everett and her husband, ECU Interim Assistant Provost John Core, Sandra made arrangements with Head Music Librarian David Hursh for the addition of Tom's collection of string-related audio and video recordings, scores, and books to Joyner's music library collection. The scores for a high-quality edition of Antonio Vivaldi's famous Four Seasons were among the items donated, and these were used in the performance of that work in the November 2 concert. The festival's artistic director, violinist Ara Gregorian, recognized Sandra during the concert, which was attended by two dozen of her Greenville friends.

The concert was followed by a reception, during which attendees were treated to a display case providing biographical information and photos of the donors as well as a selection of materials from the collection. The Music Library is pleased to bring the Thomas Moore Collection home to North Carolina, where it will continue Tom's work of training young musicians for years to come.

Joyner Library Hosts Spooky FaculTea

The first FaculTea of this academic year occurred on October 31st at 3:30 p.m. With over 50 faculty, staff, and students present, this was one of the largest FaculTea events to date! Likening a spooky theme for Halloween, Dr. E. Thomson Shields and Dr. Charles R. Ewen presented "The Lost Colony: in Fact and Fiction."

The saga of the Lost Colony is one of the most enduring mysteries in the United States. Ewen and Shields provided a short history of what little we actually know about the colony and then discussed the lore that has grown up around its disappearance. They concluded by discussing a number of speculative scenarios of the colonists' fate and how academic researchers might address the various speculations.

Charles R. Ewen received his PhD at the University of Florida (1987). He joined the faculty at ECU in 1994 and is a full professor in the Department of Anthropology as well as Director of the Phelps Archaeology Laboratory.

Tom Shields earned his PhD at the University of Tennessee in 1990. He joined the ECU faculty in 1989 and is an associate professor in the Department of English.

The FaculTea program at Joyner Library began in collaboration with the Thomas Harriot College of Arts and Sciences in the spring of 2008 to promote scholarly exchange among ECU faculty.

The Library will host the next FaculTea "Translating Attila: Greek, Latin, Hunnic, English" featuring Dr. John Given on November 20th at 3:30pm.

College of Education's Extended Open House

The Teaching Resources Center (TRC) hosted the College of Education's Extended Open House on Saturday, November 1, 2013. In addition to learning about the COE's various program areas, the open house gave prospective freshmen, transfer students, and parents an opportunity to visit Joyner Library and learn of the TRC's services and resources.

While taking visitors on tours of the TRC, library employees highlighted the Debnam Resource Center for Family Literacy, the collaborative study area, the Betty Debnam Hunt Instructional Technology Classroom, services provided at the TRC Service Desk, curriculum materials and collections, the Enhancing Teachers' Classrooms (ETC) Production Center, the Ronnie Barnes African-American Resource Center, and the café study area. This collaboration with the College of Education began Spring 2013, and the Teaching Resources Center hopes to host the Spring 2014 open house as well.

Walk-Up Scanner Service

Joyner Library recently installed a new walk-up scanner in the Research and Instructional Services area. The scanner features a touch screen that allows users to quickly scan books, maps, images, and documents. Users can send their scanned images to their email, a USB drive, a printer, or a Google Doc. Additionally, users can even create audio files from text. The scanner gives users the option to print in black and white or color. The scanner is free to use, and users are only charged if they print in the library. Stop by the Research and Instructional Services Department and try it out!

Rhem/Schwarzmann Prize for Recognition of Student Research

This award honors outstanding research papers written by sophomores, juniors and seniors. Cash prizes in the amount of $750, $500 and $250 will be awarded to winners.

Papers may be in any field of study, but must be based on sources found primarily in Joyner's Manuscripts and Rare Books Department and submitted by the professor for whom it was written by 12/31/13.

For more information contact: guillk@ecu.edu

BrowZine Now Available on Android Tablets

The ECU Libraries' subscription to BrowZine now includes access to BrowZine on Android tablets. The BrowZine app provides researchers with a simple and convenient newsstand-style display for browsing, reading, and managing content in scholarly journals on iPads, iPad minis, and, now, Android tablets.

The Libraries' subscription to BrowZine enables ECU tablet users to easily access significant portions of the Libraries' e-journal collection. Among the major journal publishers that make their content accessible on BrowZine are Cambridge UP, Elsevier, IEEE, Nature Publishing Group, New England Journal of Medicine, Oxford UP, SAGE, Springer, Taylor & Francis, Wiley-Blackwell, and many others. Users can browse journal content by title and subject, create a bookshelf of favorite journals, receive alerts about newly published content, and save articles to RefWorks, Zotero, Mendeley, Dropbox, and other services. Getting BrowZine access set-up is simple.

Download the BrowZine app, open it, and then select East Carolina University as your institution. Once you have entered your PirateID and password, you will be able to start using BrowZine to easily access and read articles on your tablet.

New Collections in Special Collections

First Battle of Kinston, N.C., Collection, 1862-1863
Manuscript Collection #1222

This collection includes seven letters (November 20, 1862-January 12, 1863) written by brothers Thomas Kinsley of Co. A and Alfred Kinsley of Co. H of the Massachusetts 45th Infantry during the Civil War. Alfred Kinsley enlisted as a sergeant on September 16, 1862, and Thomas enlisted as a private the day before. Their letters originate from Camp Amory on the Trent at New Bern, N.C. The main focus of their letters is the First Battle of Kinston, N.C., which took place on December 13 and 14, 1862.

Battles (1862) at Kinston and White Hall, N.C., Collection
Manuscript Collection #1224

This new collection includes four letters (November 25, December 3, December 4, and December 10, 1862) written in a diary format covering the period November 25 through December 21, 1862, by 1st Lieutenant Francis Wayland Adams of Brookfield, Massachusetts, serving in the 51st Massachusetts Infantry. His letters to his sister Elizabeth detail the trip aboard the Steamer Merrimac from Boston to New Bern, N.C., and his regiment's involvement in the Goldsboro, N.C., Expedition and battles at Kinston and White Hall, N.C. Also included is a 50 page typescript of the letters probably done by Robert W. Adams in October 1947.

Joyner Library Employees Raise Money for Ronald McDonald House

On Thursday, October 31, members of the Joyner Library Support Staff Assembly organized a Bake Sale to benefit the Ronald McDonald House of Greenville, NC. Brownies, cookies, dog biscuits, cat treats, and even chocolate covered bacon were among the many offerings prepared by Library faculty and staff.

Sale proceeds combined with donations raised $600, making this year's Bake Sale the most successful ever. The Bake Sale is a yearly tradition for Joyner Library in which a different charity is selected by popular vote each year. This year's recipient, the Ronald McDonald House of Greenville, NC, opened in 1987 and provides the families of hospitalized ill and injured children a place to stay without the need to spend time and money traveling to and from home. In 2012, 628 families from 46 eastern North Carolina counties benefited from the services offered by the Greenville Ronald McDonald House.

Joyner Library bake sale coordinator Tracie Hampton presents check to Kim Kazda, House Operations Director for the Greenville, NC, chapter on November 12, 2013.

Book Publications

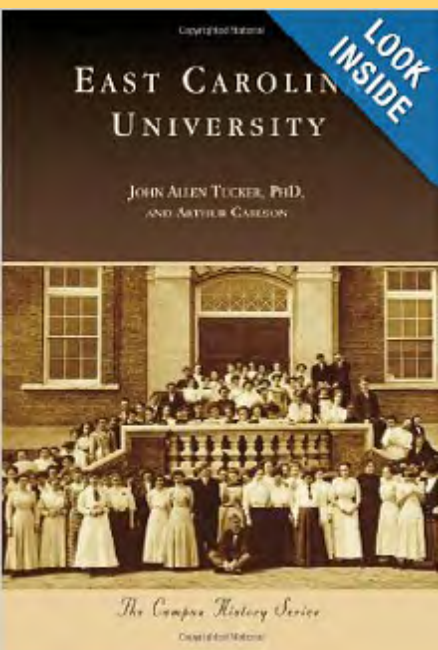

Barry Munson, North Carolina Collection, has won the Willie Parker Peace History Award for editing and publishing Confederate Incognito: The Civil War Reports of "Long Grabs," a.k.a. Murdoch John McSween, 26th and 35th North Carolina Infantry. Barry is a four-time recipient of the award, which was presented at the society's annual banquet held October 20 in Mooresville.

From Amazon.com: Preferring anonymity, Murdoch John McSween wrote over 80 letters under the pseudonym "Long Grabs" to the Fayetteville Observer (North Carolina), serving as their unofficial war correspondent. For the first two full years of the war, 1862-1863, he was a sometimes drill master at Camp Mangum, in Raleigh, and a wanderer among the regiments in North Carolina and Virginia.

Fred Harrison's book, Martin County Revisited, was released to the public Monday, Nov. 4, 2013. He will be doing intermittent book signings at the 31st Annual Roanoke Arts & Crafts Guild Fair at the Martin County Farmers Market, Williamston, NC

On Dec. 7, 2013, Fred will be doing a book signing from 9am – 3pm at the Sen. Bob Martin Agricultural Center in Williamston as part of the Martin County Farm Heritage Day Fair.

Fred works in the North Carolina Collection.

The newest entry into Arcadia Publishing's Campus History Series, East Carolina University is now available. Authored by University Historian Dr. John Tucker and J.Y. Joyner Library archivist Arthur Carlson, the work provides a pictorial history of East Carolina's growth from its 1907 founding as a small regional teaching training school into the world-class research university it is today. The material featured within its pages nearly all came from the East Carolina University Archives, with additional support from the Wilson Library in Chapel Hill and private collections.
